AUNT ABBY, THE IRREPRESSIBLE.

A SKETCH FROM LIFE.

BY MRS. MARY B. CLARKE.

It was Valentine's Day, and having spent a large part of the morning in the gallery of both Houses of the Legislature, "assisting," as the French would say, at the passage of a bill appropriating fifteen hundred dollars to the Ladies' Memorial Association, I threw myself on a sofa after my return from the State House, fatigued with the exertion of mounting two pair of stairs, and dropped into a half doze, from which I was roused by the sudden opening of the door and the entrance, unannounced, of a tall, Meg Merrilies looking woman, who walking straight up to where I lay—said,

"I staid last night with Miss Bobbett, and she told me as how you had writ something about President Davis, and Giniral Lee, for Giniral Hill's book, and I've come over here to give you my 'sperience of the war, and git you to write that down too."

She was dressed in deep mourning, with a black silk handkerchief tied over her cap and under her chin, so as to conceal every particle of white, which might otherwise have softened the harsh outlines of her face; over this was stuck a black shaker bonnet which tipped so far forward as almost to rest on her nose; and as I caught the expression of her shrewd black eyes peering at me in a weird and scrutinizing manner, I instinctively felt that her 'sperience would be worth listening to, and perhaps worth relating to the readers of the LAND WE LOVE.

I had heard of "Aunt Abby House" and her untiring efforts to obtain furloughs for sick soldiers, ever since the first year of the war, and recognized in her one of those persons who are best described as being a "character."

* * * * * * *

"Aunt Abby," the name by which she has gradually come to be known, was never known to yield what she conceived to be a right, without a struggle, and has consequently been involved during the greater part of her life in lawsuits, which have brought her in personal contact with the first lawyers of the State. This has doubtless confirmed her natural fearlessness of speech; for among the country people of North Carolina, more especially that much sneered at portion of them that cannot read and write, who are so mourned over by Northern Radicals, but who generally manage notwithstanding to make good citizens, with clear common sense views of politics, the leading lawyer practising in the courts of the county in which they reside, is regarded as the greatest man in the State, and the Governor and whole executive sink into a secondary position beside him; it is generally believed that he does not hold the highest offices, simply because he would not give up his practice for them, and when he is elected Governor, or sent to Congress, they "always knowed he could 'er bin long ago if he wanted to."

Nothing but the best would ever satisfy Aunt Abby, and she who spoke her mind freely to "lawyer Badger, lawyer Miller, or Squire Haywood," had no bashfulness in the presence of President Davis, General Lee, or Governor Vance. To the same cause she probably owes her ability to see more clearly into the merits of a case than most women of her class, and has acquired a facility in the use of her usually strong mind. "I haint bin a lawin' of it nigh upon thirty years, honey, without findin' out that a bad speaker'll spile a good case, and that's the reason when I's got enything to say I says it right out at head-quarters. When you see a lawyer a carryin' of a case first to the county court and then to the superior court, and then a flinging of it into the supreme court, you may be pretty shure he is generally a trying to stave off a judg*ment* and git time. Now that's just the way in the army, if you goes to the Captain he sends you to the Major, and if you goes to the Major he sends you to the Curnel, so when I wanted anything I never wasted time on none 'er your under-strappers—I went straight to President Davis or Gineral Lee, and I got it."

This was in reply to my question as to what put it first into her head to go to see President Davis. She had eight nephews in the Confederate army, all but one, Edward Sutton, of Georgia, in North Carolina regiments. "Ah! I can tell you what, narry a man in my family would I a let stay at home in peace when he was able to shoulder a musket. I said to them, boys says I, all 'er you go a 'long to the field whar you belongs, and if eny on you gits sick or wounded, you may depend on yer old aunt Abby to nuss and 'tend to you. For so help me God, if one of you gets down, and I can't git to you no other way, I'll foot it to your bed-sides; and if arry a one on you dies, or is killed, I promise, before the Lord, to bring you home and bury you with your kin."

Faithfully did she keep this promise; five of the eight sleep in soldiers' graves, and she never failed in it to one of them. The first year of the war had not closed before she was called on to bring home the body of one of them who had died in the hospital at Petersburg. She went on to nurse him as soon as she heard he was sick, and after remaining with him some time left him, as she supposed, convalescent, and returned to her home in Franklin county; she had not been there long before a letter came telling her if she wished to see him alive she must hasten back; she lived three miles from the depot, and had only time to reach it before the next train passed by, running a great part of the way. This she did, and got to Petersburg to find her nephew speechless and insensible. "But by a rubbing and doctoring him, I fotch him round to know me afore he died, and then I brung him home to Franklin to his mother. I sent a nigger on ahead from the depot to tell her I was a coming with Dunc's body, but he never went, and the poor thing never knowed he was dead 'til I drove up in a cart with him. But I could'nt rest 'er nights arter we had buried him, for thinking he wouldn't 'er died if I had 'er staid thar to 'tend him; and I said I never would leave another one on 'em in a hospital agin, but jest fetch the next one that tuck sick home and nuss him myself; for I didn't have no 'pinion of them army Sudgins.—Some of the neighbors 'lowed Jeff. Davis want a gwine ter let me fetch soldiers off just when I tuck a notion ter; and said thar was an order out that all soldiers in the horsepitals was to stay thar till they got well.

"'Till they dies you'd better say, says I; and if they ain't a gwine to let us women bring the boys home and nuss 'em when they's sick, then its a burning shame they don't take better kere on em in the horse-pitals; and I've a great mind to go and tell em so.

'You'd better,' says they, 'much Jeff. Davis and Gineral Lee's gwine to heed what a ole 'oman like you can say, even if you could get to 'em.'

"Well, if they haint got sense enough to know that a ole 'oman knows a sight more about nussing of a man that's down with the measles or the plurissy than these young Doctors does whose a thinking a sight more about siling of them new uniforms, and a drinking liquor than they is about curing of them that is in the horse-pital, they'd better give up their places to them as has, and go into the ranks; and you all hear me say it now, that the next one of my boys that gets down, I'm gwine to bring him home if I has to go inter President Davis' bed-chamber to git the papers signed to do it."

* * * * * * *

She was as fearless under fire as she was in the use of her tongue, and more than one officer has testified to the coolness with which she would walk through the trenches during the fearful bombardment of Petersburg; and she has frequently been known to go under a heavy fire to carry water to our wounded. On one occasion an officer met her coolly walking down the road leading two horses by their bridles, with the bullets whistling round her like hail.

"My God! old lady," he exclaimed, "what are you doing here?"

"I'm a taking Colonel McRae's and Captain Young's horses to 'em. They jumped off 'em and turned 'em into the yard, while they run through the bushes down yonder to whar the Yankees begun a firing on our boys; and when they opened on 'em with the cannon, and the shells begun to bust round headquarters, these here foolish horses got sorter cantankerous, so I cotch 'em by the bridles, and as they'd 'er bin killed mabe if I left 'em up yonder, I'm gwine to take 'em down to whar the boys is under cover."

The officer, who told the story, said she was as cool as though she was leading the horses to water on a summer's day at home; and got excited and used expressions more forcible than elegant when they, snorting and jerking back at the whiz of every shell, came near stepping on her. She said the woman at the house had run into the cellar when the bombardment began, and called to her to come in too, "but I told her I was a gwine to carry them thar horses to ther owners,—for mabe they'd need 'em yet a'fore the day was over."

* * * *

"You (Aunt Abby to the writer) jest do what I tells you 'bout writing to Governor Vance, and axing him 'bout that letter he 'gin me to Gin'ral Lee, and told me not to let no body laugh at. He read it to me, but I disremember what was in it: I only knows that Gin'ral Lee said it was a mighty smart letter, and seemed powerful sorry he could'nt let Marcellus stay at home that time cause he was afeard of the example."

I did write to Gov. Vance, and his reply was so characteristic of him, General Lee, and Aunt Abby, that I will close her story with the following extract from his letter.

"On one occasion Aunt Abby came to me and said her nephew Marcellus was in the hospital at Richmond, and 'was gwine to die sure ef he didn't git away from thar to whar somebody could nuss him;' and promised me solemnly that if I would get him a sick furlough for thirty days, that she would return him at the end of the time, dead or alive! Upon this I applied for the furlough, and gave my personal pledge that he should promptly return. She set off to Richmond with my letter, and soon Aunt Abby and Marcellus came home rejoicing. It had all passed out of my mind, when lo! at the end of sixty days into my office popped Aunt Abby. She took a seat and stuck her feet up on the fender without a word being spoken.

"Well," said I, "you took Marcellus back didn't you?"

"No I didn't," said she, "that child's got the wust coff ever you seed, and I am come to git you to write 'em that he aint able to go back."

"The mischief you have! How do I know that?"

"Why I tell ye so; do you dare to 'spute my word?"

"Well but I don't know it; I've not seen him, and I can't certify to anything which is not within my knowledge. And besides, I'm not a doctor."

"But they'll believe anything you tell 'em."

"Yes, but I can't tell them a lie."

"It taint no lie I tell ye! If you could see that boy coff it would make you sick! Shut up with your foolishness and jest write to 'em as I tell ye; tell 'em I say he ain't fitten to go back."

"Well, well" said I in despair, "who shall I write to?"

"Write to Gin'ral Lee, I don't want no botherment with none of them officers."

"I seized a pen and wrote about as follows:"

"'GENERAL: The ubiquitous, indefatigable and inevitable Mrs. House will hand you this. She asks me to say, that she says, that her nephew Marcellus, of — regiment, N. C. T's., now at home, thirty days over his leave, is still unable to return to duty. She says he has a most distressing "coff." I have not graduated in medicine, nor have I seen this patient, but judging from the symptoms as detailed by Mrs. House, I venture the opinion that Marcellus, like his great namesake, has his thoughts "bent on peace." I fear that the air here is too far South for his lungs, and earnestly recommend that more salubrious atmosphere of the Rappahannock; and that when comfortably established there, he be made to take for his "koff" a compound of sulphur, saltpetre and charcoal, to be copiously administered by inhalation.

I should be happy to learn the result of this prescription, and have the honor to be General, Your ob't serv't.,

Z. B. VANCE.'"

"I read this letter over to her in a loud and pompous tone. She was delighted with it, and slapped me on the shoulder saying, "Lord bless ye, honey, that's it, why could'nt you a done that at fust, without all this foolishness?"

As I folded and addressed the letter, I said to her, that there were many people in the army who did'nt like me, and perhaps some of them would make fun of my letter, and if so, she must let me know.

"Just let 'em dar to laugh at it," said she, and with many thanks she left me. In a couple of weeks she came into my offices again with a very long face, indeed.

"What luck, Aunt Abby?" said I, "did you get Marcellus excused?"

"Lord bless you, honey, it never done a grain o' good; I carried your letter to Gin'ral Lee, who read it, but they tuck him, Lord bless your heart, they took that child back jist the same as if you hadn't 'er writ that letter!"

I expressed my concern, of course, and added, "I hope Gen. Lee did'nt make fun of my letter, did he?"

"No," said she, "he begun to laugh wonst, but I told him 'to dry that up,' and he read it through very solemn, and said it was a mighty smart letter."

She reveals secrets no mortal ever knew. She restores to happiness those who, from doleful events, catastrophes, crosses in love, loss of relations and friends, loss of money, &c., have become despondent. She brings together those long separated, gives information concerning absent friends or lovers, restores lost or stolen property, tells you the business you are best qualified to pursue and in what you will be most successful, causes speedy marriages and tells you the very day you will marry, gives you the name, likeness and characteristics of the person. She reads your very thoughts, and by her almost supernatural powers unveils the dark and hidden mysteries of the future. From the stars we see in the firmament—the malefic stars that overcome or predominate in the configuration—from the aspects and positions of the planets and the fixed stars in the heavens at the time of birth, she deduces the future destiny of man. Fail not to consult the greatest Astrologist on earth. It costs you but a trifle, and you may never again have so favorable an opportunity. Consultation fee, with likeness and all desired information, $1. Parties living at a distance can consult the Madame by mail with equal safety and satisfaction to themselves, as if in person. ## THE MOBILE RIOT.

The mails bring us, at last, the Mobile papers, containing copious accounts of the recent "riot" in that City. The statements of all of them fully corroborate the temperate and impartial dispatch of the Associated Press. It appears that there was really no "riot," in the proper sense of that term, but rather a panic, occasioned by the attempt of the Chief of Police to arrest a drunken man, (white,) who manifested an inclination to disturb the meeting, which was made the pretext, by a large number of armed negroes, for an indiscriminate assault upon the white men present. It is clearly shown that not only was there no attack made upon Judge Kelley, but that he retired to his hotel without molestation, and that he was subsequently informed by the Commander of the military post that there was no need for the guard he had requested for his protection.

These facts, as thus stated, are confirmed by the following extracts:

From the Mobile Register.

THE LATE RIOT AND PANIC.

The disturbance that occurred at the meeting to hear Judge Kelley was the result, as we have stated, of the merest accident.—First, a citizen, who had been drinking, made several loud comments on portions of Judge Kelley's remarks that did not please him. This happens at every public political meeting. It was very imprudent and improper to have been indulged in at this meeting. In truth, the best thing that the white people can do is to keep away from these meetings. The police endeavored to quiet the tipsy citizen, and failing in that, to arrest him. The arrest provoked a scuffle, and about the same time a carriage and horses ran off through the outskirts of the crowd, producing a rush to get out of the way. The two circumstances created the impression in the body of the crowd that there was a fight begun, and the whole mass broke up and dispersed at double-quick.—Meantime the freedmen commenced firing their pistols, and, as we learn, in the air, as they ran. The last account must be true, for as there were from one hundred and fifty to two hundred shots fired, if they had been aimed in the crowd nearly as many hundred men must have been hit. As it was, the shot casualties do not exceed six or eight, and most of all those to white men.

A Federal officer states that he was in the crowd, and the firing commenced on the pavement, next to the stand, and it was here that the colored men were thickest.—The white people were mostly on the outskirts of the crowd.

We think it perfectly clear that neither whites nor blacks went to that meeting with any thought of or intent about a row. It is true many negroes were armed—but that is a habit of theirs at all their meetings.

This affair, the result of a sudden panic springing from two accidental causes, likely to occur at any public gathering, will no doubt be greatly exaggerated when it reaches the Northern Radical papers, and magnified into a fierce rebel attack on a colored meeting and its Congressional orator. We hear that the wires are already freighted with any quantity of sensational falsehood and slander. This is another of the misfortunes of our unhappy and defenceless condition. A base traduction is thus added to our other many wrongs and woes.

The following statement from the Advertiser entirely contradicts the very inflammatory telegraphic account published in the New York Herald:

It is very generally reported on the streets among the colored population that our Mr. Forsyth fired at Judge Kelley from the east window of his house, which overlooked the speakers' platform and the general scene of the meeting. The truth of the case was that Mr. Forsyth was at the Patti concert with his family, and left his house before the meeting was organized, and did not get back until the military reached the ground. Another report is that seven shots were fired from the same window. The truth is that one shot came there, but none went from it.

A gentleman living pretty high up Church street was standing in his door as a party of the freedmen were retreating from the meeting, and saw one of them shoot twice at a lady who was looking out at a neighboring door to see what the row was about. The shots fortunately missed fire, and Judge Kelley escapes the responsibility of her blood.

In company with Colonel Shepherd, commanding the 15th Infantry, and Major Tracy, of the same corps, Mayor Withers called on Judge Kelley yesterday morning, and informed him that a military guard was wholly unnecessary to his safety, and that if he desired to speak again in the daytime, he would pledge himself for his safety. Judge Kelley could'nt "see it," and chartered a special boat to take him over to the Montgomery railroad landing on the Tensas river.

We understand that Colonel Shepherd and the Mayor have been acting in harmonious concert for the preservation of order.

The citizen, Mr. Olsen, who was killed, had no part in the meeting, but was attracted by the noise and was coming to see what was the matter. He was an inoffensive, quiet man. It is unfortunate that in these cases the innocent are generally the sufferers.

In another paragraph the Register and Advertiser says:

JUDGE KELLEY.

Since the escapade of Judge Kelley from the speakers' stand at the late meeting, he has been at the Battle House, with a platoon of United States soldiers posted there to guard him. This fact will no doubt be paraded in Radical circles as a most condemning one to the state of feeling in this city. We can assure our Northern readers that great as the injury this man has been the cause of inflicting on the peace of this community, he would have been perfectly safe without a guard. That his conscience would have admonished him that he required a guard is not surprising.

It is really hard that Northern Radicals will not let us alone to manage the, under all circumstances, difficult task of arranging our new relations with the colored race. While we are doing all that men can do to keep the peace with them, and to show them that we resist no right the laws and results of war have conferred upon them, and that their interest, as well as ours, is peace, it is too bad that incendiaries should step between us to light the fires of social war.

We again say, are we not entitled to the protection of the military authorities against the outrage? If we were foot and hand free we could protect ourselves. But the Government has placed us where we can look to nothing but the Government to protect us.

The testimony given by the coroner before the jury concludes as follows:

"From what I saw and heard at the meeting and previous to the speaking, my honest conviction was, and is still, that most, if not all, the citizens of Mobile, black and white, went to that meeting with a spirit of good will towards all honest and fair dealing men, and with no intention of creating a riot or any disturbance whatever. I am still of the opinion that the citizens of Mobile, black and white, are actuated by the same spirit, and that the unfortunate disturbance last evening was occasioned by the ill-timed remarks of one or more foolish persons, who were about to be arrested by the police, when the passing of the car or carriage causing a jam of the crowd, induced the belief that there was a fight or riot, and pistols were fired.

Subsequent to the scattering of the crowd several gangs of men, colored entirely so far as I could see, were formed, who seemed to chase white men down Government and Royal streets, firing at them, but I am convinced that most of them hastened quietly off to their homes. Nor do I believe that these gangs would have been formed had it not been that the opinion prevailed among the crowd that an unprovoked attack had been deliberately made on the meeting.

My opinion is in nowise changed by the unfortunate disturbances of last night; but I still firmly believe that the great mass of the black, as well of the white, citizens of Mobile are anxious to live in peace and harmony with all men, and to avoid all difficulties or riotous conduct.

Subscribed under oath before the coroner's jury, May 16, 1867.

J. J. DELCHAMPS,
Coroner and J. P. M. Co.

GEN. SICKLES' ORDER.

There are, perhaps, a number of persons, who will complain of the recent order of Gen. Sickles, prohibiting at once the distillation of grain. It is, however, strange to us, that there should be two opinions upon that subject.

First, the complaint of the shortness of the crop of corn in the State is almost general. If even a small portion of the crop is consumed by distillation, it will render the scarcity still greater. The present crop of corn in the State will not be sufficient for the purposes of the next year, because of the general disposition to cultivate cotton. It will be seen, therefore, that there is not a grain of corn to spare for distillation.

Secondly, the difficulties of the government assessors with the distillers are matters of very general complaint. Charges of fraud are frequent and the murmurs of distillers against the enormity of the tax are universal. The state of things in South Carolina is still worse. Under such circumstances, apart from all moral considerations, the public mind will very generally sustain the order of Gen. Sickles.

Thirdly, in a moral point of view, those agencies which contribute to the intemperance of the people, especially in the altered condition of society, are a matter of great concern to the philanthropist and the statesman. The moral phases of society must not be overlooked in the present crisis. Every thing depends upon the virtue and the intelligence of the people.

RADICAL BIOGRAPHY.

John Pool, the author of an address to the People, with a short episode on obstetrics,—which Address is supposed to be lost, as nothing has been heard of it since its original appearance,—was an elector on the Jefferson Davis Ticket in 1862 and voted for that gentleman for President of the Confederate States. It has been charged, also, that he was an applicant for the position of Brigadier General in the Confederate army. Just before the election for United States Senator, last winter, he declared himself (to Mr. Russ) decidedly opposed to the Howard amendment. After the election, and his defeat, he went to Washington, and assisted in concocting what was known as the Pool-Holden-Font Bill.

R. P. Dick: Signed the ordinance of secession, and declared in a speech, in Convention, on the 5th. of June, 1861, that he had cast away the "old flag and the Union" as "accursed things."

Thomas Settle: Formerly a Captain in the C. S. A.

E. T. Blair: Wore a secession cockade in 1861, and declared that he would leave the State, if North Carolina did'nt follow the lead of South Carolina.

C. R. Thomas: In the Convention of 1861 and a terrible man-of-war.

C. L. Harris: Voted in the Legislature of 1865-'6 against allowing colored persons to testify in the Courts of Justice.

W. D. Jones: Voted with Harris as above, and also against the Howard amendment.

D. M. Carter: Formerly a Lieutenant Colonel in the Confederate Army, and a Judge of one of the military Courts.

G. W. Logan: A member of the Confederate Congress.

W. W. Holden: Can't do justice to the subject.

THE BOOTH DIARY.—So much has been said about the spoliation of the Booth diary, since the charge was made by Butler in Congress, that the President, yielding to the general curiosity to see it, has given his consent that a copy be published. We accordingly find it in the Northern papers. The Secretary of War certifies that the published diary is an exact copy of that which was placed in his hands by Provost-Marshal Baker, on the 26th. of April, 1865, shortly after Booth's capture, and a few hours before his remains reached Washington.

The telegraph furnished our readers, a few days since, the most material portions of the diary. The other parts now published, which are incoherent and disjointed, contain but little more than self-vindication of the assassin's motives and a comparison of his deed with that which made "Tell a hero," and "for which Brutus was honored."

UNION THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY.—The anniversary of this Seminary, located in Prince Edward County, Va., have just closed.—Seven students graduated, and there have been twenty-seven in attendance at the institution during the past year.

IT WILL be seen, by an extract from the Washington correspondence of the New York World, which appears in another column, that Gen. Miles, Assistant Commissioner of the Freedmen's Bureau, speaks in very favorable terms of the progress of affairs, and particularly of the status of the Freedmen, in this State. We hope his representations will have the effect of closing the mouths of some of the malignant scribblers, who are constantly proclaiming that justice to "Loyalists," white and black, cannot be had in North Carolina.

POINTED.—The New York Herald "talks it right out" about the Radical politicians in the following style:

"Their eagerness now is not to secure in the South any national object that might have been worthy such a war; not to draw toward us by wise laws the States that slavery had so nearly torn away; not to establish property and personal rights on a better basis; not to assure to the country that permanent peace and tranquility for which such sacrifices were made. No; their whole policy—all that the war has led them to—is simply and purely an eager, indecent, devil-take-the-hindmost race and scramble for the votes of all the niggers between the Potomac and the Rio Grande. Was it for this that the American people gave a million lives and thousands of millions in money?"

[From the Utica Observer.]

"JUDGE" UNDERWOOD.

A little more than twenty years ago this Underwood was a lawyer at Herkimer without clients, and a citizen without public respect. Narrow minded and fanatical, and full of the ambition natural to a weak and vain man, he sought distinction by making himself conspicuous in the ranks of the "Liberty Party." Among its four or five hundred voters in that county he was a small whale "among the minnows." He obtained the nomination of that party for Congress in the Herkimer and Montgomery district. Though nominated by the Liberty Party, his "platform" was a proposition to the people of the district that he would serve, if they would elect him, for five dollars per day instead of eight dollars then paid. The dividend which the people of that district would receive from this gratuity of three dollars per day made to the United States Treasury was the strongest argument that could be thought of to induce the electors to send him to Congress. The proposition was not accepted.

A more conclusive evidence of the estimation in which he was held in Herkimer county is found in the fact that the irreverent boys of the village on one occasion, with due pomp, installed a jackass in his office. Whether the true intent and meaning of this proceeding was that such an animal was the only species that would become a client to such a counsel, or that his donkeyship was a proper locum tenens in Underwood's absence, was an unsettled question twenty years ago.

Obtaining by marriage some landed interests in Virginia, he betook himself to that State. He availed himself of his opportunities, afforded by the excitement incident to the Fremont campaign, to make himself hated by his neighbors, and got what he probably desired—an expulsion from that State. This self-invoked martyrdom put him on the list with Jack Hamilton, and others of that category, for Federal promotion, and presently he was made a Federal district judge.

Underwood has had along with other patriots of his stamp, a good time in "spoiling the Egyptians" since the war. He lives in a confiscated house, and, by the co-operation of outside parties, he has made his position highly lucrative. It is a matter of course that he should defame the people whose property he has despoiled.

Underwood's incompetency as a judge, the low ribaldry in which he indulges in his charges from the bench, the vile scurrility which he heaps upon the people of his adopted State, his greed for confiscations, while they have filled the country with disgust, hardly excite surprise among those who know his character as a lawyer, in respect to either ability or his regard for honor or integrity.

FREEDMEN'S BUREAU IN NORTH CAROLINA.—Brevet Major General N. A. Miles, Assistant Commissioner of the Freedmen's Bureau for the State of North Carolina, in his report for the month of April, represents a satisfactory condition of affairs in that State. The majority of all classes appear to be moving in their respective spheres with a determination of purpose calculated to produce good results. Notwithstanding much destitution prevails, there are encouraging prospects of its being materially decreased.—Crops bid fair for a large yield, and early fruits and vegetables will soon be available. The advancing spring offers many opportunities to labor; and there are but few localities where those so disposed cannot obtain at least a partial support. The donations from Northern philanthropists have enabled the bureau to reach cases of destitution unknown heretofore, or unable to be reached by the government. Farmers are working to the fullest possible extent of their resources, and large tracts of land, which have until now remained forests, or which have for many years remained idle, have been taken up. As a general rule contracts are strictly observed by both parties interested and complaints of wrongs or injuries are seldom heard. The educational work continues with unabated ardor, notwithstanding the season has arrived when many are called to the field of manual labor. The monthly returns show a much more gratifying result than for any corresponding period of the year previous.

General Miles also says:

"The initiatory steps taken towards giving the colored people their rights of representation already gives evidence of its influence in the development of their manhood in a quiet manner, indicating their appreciation of their position, unattended by any evidences of elatedness, but with an earnestness of purpose characterized by moderation and proper reasoning."

WAYLAID.—Capt. W. Cloud, of Carroll, was waylaid by a party of the Red Strings between Hillsville and Mt. Airy, N. C., not long since, but by chance he took a different road from the one he usually travels, and escaped being murdered by the villains.—The Captain was enrolling officer of Carroll awhile during the war, and they, as a matter of course, were deserters. This explains their animosity.—Christiansburg Southwest.

The census of the United States was taken by actual count in the various revenue districts during the last two months of 1866, and shows an aggregate in States and Territories of 34,505,882 souls, an increase of 3,062,561 since the census of 1860. In most of the Southern States there has been a decrease, but in the Western States a large increase is reported.

ST. LOUIS, May 19.—A woman's suffrage association has been organized in this city. Some of the most prominent ladies have been elected officers. Active measures are to be taken both to shape public opinion and to effect a revision of the constitution, concerning the right of suffrage on women.

THE MISSION OF THE RADICAL STUMP SPEAKERS IN THE SOUTH.

It does not appear to be generally understood that the object of filling the Southern country just now with Radical stump-speakers is not simply to enlighten the people there in reference to their political rights.—So far as the newly made negro voters are concerned, their rights had been explained by the expositions of the various agents of the Freedmen's Bureau, who not only taught the negroes that they were, under the law of Congress, entitled to equal civil and political rights, but have, in many instances, urged upon them to claim equal social privileges. It is unfortunate that the Freedmen's Bureau has had foisted upon it as agents a number of professors of religion, who have used it as a convenient cloak for the accumulation of worldly benefits, and have been more attentive to filling their own pockets than saving souls from perdition. This has been, and is, the great curse of the Freedmen's Bureau and all its accessories. If it had been administered exclusively by officers of the United States army, who know their duties, and perform them with that sense of honor that used to be required in a military officer, there would not now be the complaints that are heard from every quarter of the South of partisan practices and partisan reports, calculated and intended to produce hostility and excited feeling in the North against the people of the South, but the new-made voters in that region, and the white people allowed to vote, would get on very peaceably, and in a friendly manner together.

We have, however, digressed from our subject. There is an earnest desire on the part of some of the Radical leaders to create a southern riot of such proportions as will afford an excuse for the reassembling of Congress in July, the impeachment of the President, and the passage of a law of confiscation of Southern property. This is the great end and aim of some of those who see in this present condition of affairs only an opportunity for money-making. They are utterly indifferent as to the result upon the country. Some of them have made money out of the war; some of them have seen others realize fortunes from the public disturbances, and are anxious to prolong them with the hope of profit to themselves.

It is such people who have induced the mission of Radical members of Congress into the Southern States to make a canvass. They procured Senator Wilson, of Massachusetts, to go thither, but he was too tame. He was not incendiary enough for their purposes. He would not make the blood and thunder speeches that these speculators desired. He did not create excitements. He was everywhere kindly and courteously received. He originated no riots. He was a failure in the speculation. Other Radical speakers were started upon the tour, with the hope of better success, among them Judge Kelley, of Pennsylvania, to stir up the passions of the people and bring about a riot if possible. These emmissaries of the Radical speculators, without knowing it themselves, are simply martyrs to Northern speculators, who would, if possible, delay reconstruction, promote sectional differences, and excite riots. If one of these Northern stump orators should be assaulted or killed during his trip, the wire-pullers here would be delighted.—They would be far advanced towards the accomplishment of their object. It would be heralded at once as a proof of the insubordination of the people of the South, made a pretext for the getting up of a furious crusade of public opinion in the North, the re-assembling of Congress in July, the impeachment and deposition of the President without delay, and the passage of bills of confiscation of Southern lands—perhaps one or two hundred leading Southern men might be seized and tried and hung by military commissions, in order to make the reign of terror more complete.

This is unquestionably the programme.—We hope the people of the South will remember it and be guarded against allowing any hot-headed defender of their cause precipitating the result so much desired, not by the people, but by the political speculators in the North. Let them tolerate free speech to the utmost extent. Let them with calmness and dignity meet argument with argument and statement with statement. There is hardly a negro in the whole South who has not sense enough to appreciate right from wrong when it is exhibited to him, nor to perceive that these imported disciples of equal rights are working only for party purposes. Their efforts to incite riots and political disturbances should only elicit disgust. This is a new phase of the pending contest. If the people of the South will keep their temper and maintain their dignity now, those who are endeavoring to re-open old sores and make them still greater sufferers will be disappointed.—National Intelligencer.

ANOTHER LOT OF PRIME SOUTHAMPTON SIDES just received by

DOUGLAS BELL,
Market Square.

May 24th., 1867.

POSTPONED TO JUNE 17.

GRAND CHARITABLE

PRESENTATION CONCERT.

—IN AID OF THE—

SOUTHERN ORPHAN ASSOCIATION.

(Incorporated by the Legislature of Virginia, January 30, 1867.)

TO BE GIVEN AT THE

MARYLAND INSTITUTE,

BALTIMORE,

JUNE 17th. 1867.

THE PROFITS OF THIS CONCERT WILL BE GIVEN TO THE SOUTHERN ORPHANS ASSOCIATION, TO THE SUBJOINED ADDRESS FROM THE OFFICERS OF WHICH, WE CALL THE ATTENTION OF THE PUBLIC.

The officers of the Southern Orphans' Association, for the maintenance and education of the destitute orphans of deceased Southern soldiers and sailors, earnestly solicit the sympathy and co-operation in our

GRAND PRESENTATION CONCERT

OF ALL WHO DESIRE TO SEE THE

"HOME AND SCHOOL."

Enabled to receive and care for all the needy ones who seek its shelter and protection.

It is the design of this Association to erect a for the Orphans of the South, both male and female, on an extensive scale, in the city of Richmond, Va. As an inducement to have the building located there, the Common Council of that city have guaranteed a sufficient lot of land, in an elevated and healthful location, and will increase the quantity of land if needed.

It is with a confident hope in a favorable response to this appeal to a public which has never yet failed to sustain a charitable institution, that we have entered into an arrangement with Messrs. L. T. Palmer & Co., No. 13 Holliday street, Baltimore, to organize a Grand Musical Presentation Concert for its benefit, and earnestly solicit the kindly aid and patronage of the public to ensure its success.

It may seem unnecessary to add a single word to the above address, but calls upon the Institution have been so numerous and pressing, and the struggle through which it is now passing to widen the circle of its charities, is of such an arduous nature that the management cannot too strongly urge upon the everywhere an active participation in this additional attempt to alleviate the sad condition of great numbers of helpless children, rendered thus by the terrible war through which we have passed. And, assuredly, whatever may have been the relative political views of ladies and gentlemen heretofore, all must agree that the children referred to could not, by any possibility, have had any agency in bringing about their present and are suitable objects for the charity of all persons of whatever shade of political opinion. The

DEPLORABLE AND DESTITUTE CONDITION

"HOME AND SCHOOL."

which they now more particularly seek to establish and endow, will be of incalculable benefit by providing not only food and raiment for these helpless ones, but likewise solid and thorough education, thus qualifying them for FUTURE USEFULNESS TO SOCIETY AT LARGE.

In order that this appeal may be effectual in enlisting the active interest and co-operation of all classes of persons everywhere, we have concluded to issue for the GRAND

PRESENTATION MUSICAL CONCERT

LOCAL DEPARTMENT.

TO ADVERTISERS.—The public will find the Sentinel one of the best mediums of advertising in the State. Its circulation covers a larger area, perhaps, than any other paper.

PRESIDENT JOHNSON WILL VISIT RALEIGH.—Just as we go to press, we are favored by his Honor, the Mayor, with the following correspondence, from which it will be seen that the President will honor Raleigh with a visit on next Tuesday week, June 4th. We have only time to say, this morning, that we hope our citizens will set to work, in co-operation with the municipal authorities, to make the interesting occasion of the visit honorable alike to the State and the President's native city.

THE INVITATION.

MAYOR'S OFFICE,
RALEIGH, N. C., May 15th., 1867.

To HIS EXCELLENCY, ANDREW JOHNSON,
President of the United States:

SIR:—As Mayor of the City of Raleigh, I have the honor to communicate to your Excellency the desire of our City Council, and our citizens generally, that you should be present with them on the 4th. day of June next, at the erection of a monument to your father, the late Jacob Johnson.

Your native city invites you to be her guest. Our old men desire to recall with you their earlier and happier days, to look back beyond the last few years of sadness and sorrow, and live again in the memories of the youthful athletic sports in which they and you were wont to engage. Our young men desire to see the face of one who furnishes the brightest example of what they may hope to accomplish, by the exercise of persevering industry, united with moral worth; and all desire to honor the man, who has nobly striven to restore the alienated States to their former place in the grand old Union.

Allow me, Honored sir, to add to this official request, my own individual solicitation that your native State and City may be permitted to give you a personal welcome.

I have the honor to be your Excellency's most humble and obt. serv't,
W. D. HAYWOOD,
MAYOR.

THE ACCEPTANCE.

EXECUTIVE MANSION,
Washington, D. C., May 22, 1867.

To the Hon. William Dallas Haywood, Mayor of Raleigh, North Carolina:

DEAR SIR:—I have received your letter of the 15th instant, and thank you for the cordial terms in which, as the representative of the citizens of Raleigh, you ask me to visit that place.

I accept the invitation of my native City to be her guest, and, deeply gratified for the respect in which they hold my Father's memory, will endeavor to be present with your citizens on the fourth day of June, the day set apart for the erection of a monument to commemorate his worth.

I am very respectfully and truly yours,
ANDREW JOHNSON.

President Johnson has also, we are gratified to say, accepted the invitation of the Trustees of the University to be present at the Commencement on the 6th of June, (Thursday.)

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.—Read the announcement of Mitchell, Allen & Co., 22 Pollok St., Newbern.

Any one desiring to rent a neat cottage residence, in a desirable part of the City, will do well to apply to Rev. Henry Hardie.

See notice of important sale, under deed of trust executed by A. T. Sawyer to R. W. Pulliam, W. H. Jones and G. W. Swepson.

Another lot of prime Southampton Sides: Douglass Bell, Market Square.

HILLSBORO' MILITARY AND POLYTECHNIC ACADEMY.—We are pleased to learn, as we do from the advertisement in another column, as also from a personal conference with Gen. Colston, that it is the purpose to establish in that excellent institution a full course of Civil Engineering. The science may be acquired in its highest branches, or just so much will be taught as will fit young men for County Surveyors, &c. This is an excellent idea, and we hope that the announcement will contribute to the success of the Academy.

"CIVIS" has been received and shall appear.

CONCERT.—The Concert heretofore promised by the teachers and scholars of the Methodist Sunday School, in this City, will take place in the Church to-night, (Friday.) We learn that an attractive programme will be presented, and we have no doubt that the occasion will be every way pleasing.—The price of admission has been fixed at 50 cents for grown persons and half that sum for children.

For the Sentinel.

LITERARY NOTICE.

THE LAND WE LOVE.

The first article of the June number of this excellent Magazine, being from your own pen, Mr. Junior Editor, I take the liberty of saying to the public, not to yourself, that the "Sketch of Gen. G. B. Anderson," for its purity of diction, geniality of style and sentiment, and accuracy in delineating the character of the friend whose virtues and worth it was your grateful task to commemorate, takes the very first rank among the sketches of a similar kind that have heretofore appeared in the Land We Love.

Gen. B. H. Helm, and his services, are also worthily sketched by a friendly, but very able hand. Both these Generals "died young." Both fell in the same cause—the lost cause. We may not speak all that we feel about the men, or the cause for which they died, for "we are conquered."

"Twelve months in Spain," (continued.)—It is to be regretted that Mr. Barringer has fallen back entirely on his original notes in this number. They are very good, surely, as is everything written by him even at that early age. But we happen to know that the writer has ripened much since "April 25, 185—," and we want the benefit of his arrieres pensees. In fact we respectfully ask him to amplify his notes hereafter, and to enrich them with the treasures of knowledge and thought which he has been laying up for the last 15 or 20 years. However, we are duly thankful for even these rather loose memoranda. He need not fear that he will ever give us too much.

Down into Devonshire: This is quite readable. But now Mr. Thompson has got "down into" London, he will enlarge his optics, and be a little less provincial than he was obliged to be while lingering in the Devonshire grave yard, and copying old epitaphs. Old Thames and its surroundings will wake him up.

John Milton: We presume this is good—to those who like such things. Everything must be good that Dr. Dabney takes the trouble to write. But that article has such a heavy look that we have only skimmed over it, here and there. Milton is a poet we honor and love. But in the politico-puritanico-Cromwellico phase of his character, we take no delight. There be those, we doubt not, who will feast on this article. But we confess to a weak stomach, and pass it by for the present.

Richmond fifty years ago: This will greatly delectate the men and women of Virginia—of a certain age. It gave us pleasure—being no son of that Mother of States, and being of very uncertain age. The writer is a Virginia Matron; and she writes well.

There are several poetical effusions in this number. Some of them are "very good," like Jeremiah's figs—some not very.

Afternoon, by Mrs. Preston, is decidedly a good fig—very sweet, genial, and John Anderson my-joe-ish. The old ones will croon it over together, in the down hill of life, and be very happy.

Love, by Mrs. Downing. This is a chanson d' amour, a little gay and Frenchy and very jolie. It defines the divine passion in various phases—very elaborately and at large, though in very short metre. The brilliant authoress has left no room for mistake hereafter, by either young or old. The young will learn, and the old remember, "all about it."

There are two stories in this number, one continued—the other commenced.

Perfect through suffering: (continued.—The May number of the Land We Love contained a chapter of this fine story, which made people laugh pretty extensively. It was full of mischief and fun. There is sadness enough in this chapter. In her discription of either feeling, Mrs. Downing has wonderful skill. One scene in which is made to appear a son of the Old North State—born we believe in this city—honored, loved and lost, will be of especial interest to many here. It is an accurate photogram of the warrior Bishop. Mrs. D's. prose is almost as good as her poetry—and that is glory enough.

Mary Ashburton is the other story, and is the first chapter of a charming autobiography of a Maryland farmer's daughter, and a very good daughter, at that. She knows all about domestic doings, such as cooking, churning, spinning and weaving home-made carpets, &c., &c. But a tasty lassie is she—shown in cultivating beautiful flowers, trailing luxuriant vines around the windows and porch, &c., &c. She has, also, come into possession of some good old books, which she devours in her little cozy boudoir, where she steals away and reads even till the sun goes down in the glorious West. No wonder she has taken to "day-dreaming"—"dreaming and loving," and all that—as ambitious, aspiring young farmer's daughters, secluded from the great world, are quite apt to do. Her young heart, reaching out its tendrils, has already fastened on "a beautiful boy, with mischievous black eyes." Prenez garde, Miss Mary! Be sure that there is no danger ahead. But we have confidence in you. We believe that you are a very good girl, and will come out all right at last. You are not pretty, you say; but one of your neighbors has declared "Mary is going to be right pretty, after all." Cultivate beautiful sentiments—such as you have expressed—and they will show in your face, by and bye. Those "mischievous black eyes" may be looking around the farm. Peradventure they have already given you loving looks—on the sly—though you are too bashful to say so. Perhaps you do not even know it. That "beautiful boy" may yet be yours, or you may be his. Time will show, and we wait his developments.

Other articles in this number are well worthy of perusal and commendation. But this notice is already too long. The Editorial is good, the Haversack ditto; and Aunt Abby House is absolutely irresistible, as well as irrepressible. Mrs. Clark, Aunt Abby and Zeb Vance, together, are too much for human nater to stand. Long may they wave—all three of them! W.

ALABAMA FINANCES.—We are gratified to be able to state (says the Mobile Register) that Alabama has renewed and paid the interest on her foreign debt, partially suspended by the late war. Funds have been remitted through the agency of the Bank of Mobile, to meet the State bond coupons due abroad in June and July. It will be remembered that during the war, when this port was blockaded, the State managed, through the assistance of James Magee, Esq., the British Consul then at this port to get a specie fund on board of an English man-of-war, for the purpose of paying her British creditors. Mr. Magee, for this service to English capitalists, lost his office, the Government of Great Britian, strangely enough, recalling him for that act. The present action places the credit of Alabama on the highest footing.

The next convention of the Southern Baptist Churches will be held in Baltimore on the Thursday preceding the second Sunday in May, 1868. The Convention just held in Memphis amended the constitution by providing for annual instead of biennial sessions.

Last winter Secretary Seward sent a long Atlantic telegram to Napoleon about French Mexican affairs. The cable charge, $19,000 in gold, has not yet been paid.

James W. Campbell, Sheriff of Jefferson county, Va., and the man who hung John Brown, died at Charlestown, West Virginia, on Sunday last.

Thursday Evening Dispatches.

MAYOR WITHERS, OF MOBILE, VACATES HIS OFFICE.

MOBILE, May 23. M.

Ex-Mayor Withers, in a letter to Col. Shepherd, says that he submits to the argument of the bayonet, and vacates his office. He was elected while a paroled prisoner and was not allowed by the Military to discharge its duties until pardoned by the President. He had taken an oath to support the Constitution of the Government during his continuance in office, to which he had not been untrue, either in letter or spirit. He solemnly protests against the imputation implied by the removal, and thanks Col. Shepherd for his uniform kindness and consideration.

FROM WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, May 23.

Jno. S. Walton has been appointed Assistant Treasurer at New Orleans.

Senator Wilson has arrived and gone North—He speaks warmly of the general courtesy of the people of the South.

Butler, in print, persists in the charges of doubtful practices regarding Booth's diary, and the pardoning of West Virginia deserters. He claims to have himself originated the famous phrase "bottled up."

Friday Morning Dispatches.

FROM WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, May 23.

Hon. A. R. Riddle, of Ohio, assists in the prosecution of Surratt's trial, which will commence on Monday. Congressman Bingham refused to assist the prosecution.

Internal Revenue to-day $453,000

A full Cabinet meeting was held to-day at which Gen. Grant was present. The meeting was very long, considering Attorney General Stanbery's opinion, which it is understood was approved and will be promulgated to-morrow.

The State Department has information that the quarantine at St. Croix has been raised, and that communication between St. Thomas and St. Croix is unrestricted.

The committee appointed to investigate the recent gas explosion at the Postoffice, whereby one person was killed and two severely hurt, reports that the accident was occasioned by the opening of the cocks by an unknown person.—The committee, however, thinks the machinery and material dangerous, and recommends some other mode of lighting the building.

An article, over the signature of "H. G." in the Tribune received yesterday, slashes away at those who assail Mr. Greeley for his late generous act, in trenchant style. Mr. Greeley has nothing to lose by his humane course, and nothing to fear from his assailants, who, as he says, will in less than three years hold a different note. He says: "No amount of personal defamation could induce me to offer any defence of my agency in procuring the release of Jefferson Davis from an imprisonment theoretically lawless and practically mischeivous. Nine-tenths of those now loudest in condemning that release are heartily glad of it, and only affect the contrary because they thereby gratify a spite, or hope to advance their own fortunes at the expense of some one else. If they could have Davis back in Fortress Monroe this hour by simply wishing it, they would not."

MR. DAVIS.—The New York Herald says: "Mr. Davis still remains a guest of Mr. Charles O'Conor, at Washington Heights. Freedom and repose have already produced the most beneficial effects upon his health, and it is expected that in a short time he will be completely restored. His departure is not positively determined upon."

At the city election in Indianapolis, on the 9th inst., Ex-Governor Morton, at present a United States Senator, offered his vote in the first ward. The vote was challenged and rejected on the ground that he had not been a resident of the ward for twenty-five days, as required by law. This high functionary's attempt to ring in his own vote fraudulently and in violation of law, is a fair illustration of the respect Radical politicians have for the law and the integrity of the ballot-box.

CHIEF JUSTICE CHASE.—It is stated that Chief Justice Chase will go to Richmond to hold the Circuit Court of the United States, if any business requiring his presence should come before it. It is, however, regarded as certain that he will preside at the session of the United States Court to be held in June, in North Carolina.

Twenty-one thousand gallons of Bourbon whiskey sold at Lexington, Ky., on Thursday last, at 75 cents per gallon. The tax on this whiskey is two dollars per gallon. Of course, the Government duty is evaded by one artifice or another.

In the Baptist Convention at Memphis, on the 13th inst., a report was made in reference to their relations towards the negroes, setting forth that that body cherished the mildest feelings towards the late slaves, and urged upon the ministry the great importance of establishing churches, and particularly Sunday Schools, for their religious instruction.

There are now 490 students at the University of Virginia. The following States are represented: Virginia, 219 students; Maryland 39; Tennessee, 36; Alabama, 32; Georgia, 31; North Carolina, 24; Mississippi, 18; West Virginia, 15; Texas, 14; Missouri, 15; South Carolina, 12; Kentucky, 12; Louisiana, 10; New York, 3; Arkansas, 3; District of Columbia, 2; Florida, 1; Pennsylvania, 1; Illinois, 1; Nevada, 1.

Gen. Sherman has returned from the plains and says "we may have Indian war if we choose."

Baltimore is going to have a grand "Monumental" Hotel which will cover a space of 47,004 square feet, and have a front of 620 feet on three streets. It will be five stories, will accommodate 525 guests, and cost about $1,650,000.

The President has been in receipt, within a few days, of a large number of letters from the South, asking a great many questions as to the qualifications of an elector under the Reconstruction law. Some of these letters contain new and important inquiries, and the effect is likely to be the temporary delay of the issuance of Attorney-General Stanberry's opinion. Among the questions propounded is the following: "Is an ex-member of a State convention, which passed an ordinance of secession, but who did not participate in armed rebellion, disfranchised? Or is a member of such a convention, who voted against the ordinance, disqualified?"

The New York Times says that President Johnson's personal habits "have been rigidly and severely abstemious ever since he has been in the Presidential office."

MADAME E. F. THORNTON, the great English Astrologist, Clairvoyant and Psychometrician, who has astonished the scientific classes of the Old World, has now located herself at Hudson, N. Y. Madame Thornton possesses such wonderful powers of second sight, as to enable her to impart knowledge of the greatest importance to the single or married of either sex. While in a state of trance, she delineates the very features of the person you are to marry, and by the aid of an instrument of intense power, known as the Psychomotrope, guarantees to produce a life-like picture of the future husband or wife of the applicant, together with date of marriage, position in life, leading traits of character, &c. This is no humbug, as thousands of testimonials can assert. She will send when desired a certified certificate, or written guarantee, that the picture is what it purports to be. By enclosing a small lock of hair and stating place of birth, age, disposition and complexion, and enclosing fifty cents and stamped envelope addressed to yourself, you will receive the picture and desired information by return mail. ### CHILDREN GONE.

Sometimes, when the day grows dusky
  And the stars begin to come,
When the children, from their playing,
  Come singing and laughing home,
I think, with a sudden sorrow,
  As they press through the open door,
Of the faces of the children
  That we never shall see any more.

Children in snow white caskets,
  Laid away to their rest,
Their still hands lying folded
  Over the pulseless breast!
Children who came and tarried
  As only it were for a night,
And passed, at the break of the morning,
  On a far journey out of sight.

On a long and a lonely journey,
  Where we could not help or hold,
For we saw but the closing of eyelids,
  The fading of locks of gold,
And knew how now was but silence,
  Where once had been prattle and song;
And only a chill and a shadow,
  Where was sunshine the whole day long.

Away from our care and caresses,
  "God knows where they are," we say,
And we know that we tarry behind them
  Only a little way;
For we, too, haste in our journey,
  And we know it will not be long,
Till we come to the city eternal,
  The rest and the rapture of song.

Yet oft, when the sun is setting
  In unspeakable splendor of light,
Or the day grows dim and dusky,
  And the shadows stretch into the night;
When the children, tired with their playing,
  Come in through the open door,
I think of the dear, dear children,
  Who never will come any more.

FIRST CLASS PROPERTY FOR RENT.

THAT LARGE, COMMODIOUS, AND WELL known Hotel,

"THE METROPOLITAN"

situated in the center of the business portion of Greensboro, N. C., is offered for rent or lease.

Its advantages are many; the outhouses and improvements are in fine condition, and of modern construction. Greensboro is a point at which a well conducted Hotel cannot fail to pay an active manager very handsomely; being at the terminus of the Richmond, Danville and Piedmont Rail Road, about the middle of the N. C. Central Rail Road, in the very centre of the Mining District of N. C.; at a point always remarkable for its flourishing schools and female colleges, and well known as a summer resort, on account of its healthy atmosphere.

The proprietors would prefer renting to some party, who have had experience in conducting a first-class hotel, and to such the terms would be most liberal; at any rate they desire an active and energetic man. The Metropolitan Property being the only Hotel in the central part of town, makes it most desirable, and a competent manager would enjoy a monopoly.

Congressional Reconstruction Acts.

For the information of our readers we republish as follows the late reconstruction act of Congress, known as the Sherman-Shellabarger bill. We shall add to it the Howard Amendment, Test Oath and the Supplementary act, all of which will be kept standing until the necessary information they contain shall be generally and fully understood.

THE RECONSTRUCTION ACT.

AN ACT to provide for the more efficient government of the rebel States.

[Passed over the President's Veto, March 2d, 1867.]

WHEREAS, no legal State governments or adequate protection for life or property now exists in the rebel States of Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Mississippi, Alabama, Louisiana, Florida, Texas and Arkansas; and whereas it is necessary that peace and good order should be enforced in said States until loyal and Republican State Governments can be legally established: Therefore,

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That said rebel States shall be divided into military districts and made subject to the military authority of the United States, as hereinafter prescribed, and for that purpose Virginia shall constitute the first district; North Carolina and South Carolina the second district; Georgia, Alabama and Florida the third district; Mississippi and Arkansas the fourth district; and Louisiana and Texas the fifth district.

SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That it shall be the duty of the President to assign to the command of each of said districts an officer of the army, not below the rank of Brigadier general, and to detail a sufficient military force to enable such officer to perform his duties and enforce his authority within the district to which he is assigned.

SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That it shall be the duty of each officer assigned as aforesaid to protect all persons in their rights of person and property, to suppress insurrection, disorder and violence, and to punish or cause to be punished all disturbers of the public peace and criminals, and to this end he may allow local civil tribunals to take jurisdiction of and to try offenders, or, when in his judgement it may be necessary for the trial of offenders, he shall have power to organize military commissions or tribunals for that purpose, and all interference, under color of State authority, with the exercise of military authority under this act shall be null and void.

SEC. 4. And be it further enacted, That all persons put under military arrest by virtue of this act shall be tried without unnecessary delay, and no cruel or unusual punishment shall be inflicted; and no sentence of any military commission or tribunal hereby authorized, affecting the life or liberty of any person, shall be executed until it is approved by the officer in command of the district, and the laws and regulations for the government of the army shall not be affected by this act, except in so far as they conflict with its provisions. Provided, That no sentence of death, under the provisions of this act, shall be carried into effect without the approval of the President.

SEC. 5. And be it further enacted, That when the people of any one of said rebel States shall have formed a constitution of government in conformity with the Constitution of the United States in all respects, framed by a convention of delegates elected by the male citizens of said State, twenty one years old and upwards, of whatever race, color or previous condition, who have been resident in said State for one year previous to the day of such election, except such as may be disfranchised for participation in the rebellion, or for felony at common law; and when such constitution shall provide that the elective franchise shall be enjoyed by all such persons as have the qualifications herein stated for electors of delegates; and when such constitution shall be ratified by a majority of the persons voting on the question of ratification, who are qualified as electors for delegates; and when such Constitution shall be ratified by a majority of the persons voting on the question of ratification, who are qualified as electors for delegates; and when such constitution shall have been submitted to Congress for examination and approval, and Congress shall have approved the same; and when the said State, by a vote of its legislature, elected under said constitution, shall have adopted the amendment to the constitution of the United States, proposed by the Thirty-ninth Congress, and known as article fourteen; and when said article shall have become a part of the constitution of the United States, said State shall be declared entitled to representation in Congress, and Senators and Representatives shall be admitted therefrom, on their taking the oath prescribed by law; and then and thereafter the preceding sections of this act shall be inoperative in said State. Provided, That no person excluded from the privilege of holding office by said amendment to the constitution of the United States shall be eligible to election as a member of the convention to frame a constitution for any of said rebel States, nor shall any such person vote for members of such convention.

SEC. 6. And be it further enacted, That until the people of said rebel States shall be by law admitted to representation in the Congress of the United States, any civil government which may exist therein shall be deemed provisional only, and in all respects subject to the paramount authority of the United States at any time to abolish, modify, control or supersede the same; and in all elections to any office under such provisional governments all persons shall be entitled to vote, and none others, who are entitled to vote under the provisions of the fifth section of this act; and no person shall be eligible to any office under such provisional governments who would be disqualified from holding office under the provisions of the third article of said constitutional amendment.

SCHUYLER COLFAX.
Speaker of the House of Representatives.

LAFAYETTE S. FOSTER,
President of the Senate pro tem.

The following is the Constitutional Amendment referred to in the 4th. section of the Sherman Bill:

Proposed Constitutional Amendment.

ARTICLE XIV.

Section 1. All persons born or naturalized in the United States and subject to the jurisdiction thereof are citizens of the United States and of the State wherein they reside. No State shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States; nor shall any State deprive any person of life, liberty or property without due process of law, nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws.

SEC. 2. Representatives shall be apportioned among the several States according to their respective numbers, counting the whole number of persons in each State excluding Indians not taxed. But when the right to vote at any election for the choice of electors for President and Vice-President of the United States, representatives in Congress, executive and judicial officers of a State, or the members of the Legislature thereof, is denied to any of the male inhabitants of such State being twenty-one years of age and citizens of the United States, or in any way abridged except for participation in rebellion or other crime, the basis of representation therein shall be reduced in the proportion which the number of such male citizens shall bear to the whole number of male citizens twenty-one years of age in such State.

SEC. 3. No person shall be a Senator or Representative in Congress, or elector of President and Vice-President, or hold any office, civil or military, under the United States or under any State, who, having previously taken an oath as a member of Congress, or as an officer of the United States, or as a member of any State Legislature, or as an executive or judicial officer of any State, to support the Constitution of the United States, shall have engaged in insurrection or rebellion against the same, or given aid and comfort to the enemies thereof. But Congress may, by a vote of two-thirds of each House, remove such disability.

SEC. 4. The validity of the public debt of the United States authorized by law, including debts incurred for payment of pensions and bounties for services in suppressing insurrection or rebellion, shall not be questioned. But neither the United States nor any State shall assume or pay any debt or obligation incurred in aid of insurrection or rebellion against the United States, or any claim for the loss or emancipation of any slave; but all such debts, obligations and claims, shall be held illegal and void.

SEC. 5. The Congress shall have power to enforce by appropriate legislation the provisions of this article.

The following is the oath of office referred to in the 5th section of the bill, and also in the 6th of the Supplementary Bill:

An Act to Prescribe an Oath of Office and for Other Purposes.

Be it enacted, That hereafter any person elected or appointed to any office of honor or profit under the government of the United States, either in the civil, military or naval department of the public service, except the President of the United States, shall before entering upon the duties of such office, and before being entitled to any of the salary or other emolument thereof, take and subscribe the following oath or affirmation: "I, A B, do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I have never voluntarily borne arms against the U. S. since I have been a citizen thereof; that I have voluntarily given no aid, countenance, counsel or encouragement to persons engaged in armed hostility thereto; that I have never sought nor accepted, nor attempted to exercise the functions of any office whatever, under any authority, or pretended authority, in hostility to the United States; that I have not yielded a voluntary support to any pretended government, power or constitution within the United States, hostile or inimical thereto; and I do further swear (or affirm) that to the best of my knowledge and ability, I will support and defend the constitution of the United States against all enemies, foreign and domestic; that I will bear true faith and allegiance to the same; that I take this obligation freely, without any mental reservation or purpose of evasion, and that I will well and faithfully discharge the duties of the office on which I am about to enter. So help me God," which oath, so taken and signed, shall be preserved among the files of the Court, Houses of Congress, or the department to which said officer may appertain. And any person who may falsely take said oath shall be guilty of perjury, and on conviction, in addition to the penalties now prescribed for that offence, shall be deprived of his office, and rendered incapable, forever after, of holding any office or place under the United States.

SUPPLEMENT TO THE STEVENS-SHERMAN-SHELLABARGER BILL.

AN ACT supplemental to an act entitled an act to provide for the more efficient government of the rebel States, passed March 2, 1867, and to facilitate restoration.

Be it enacted, &c., That before the first day of September, 1867, the commanding general in each district defined by the act to provide for the more efficient government of the rebel States, approved March 2, 1867, shall cause a registration to be made of the male citizens of the United States, twenty-one years of age, and upwards, resident in each county or parish in the State or States included in his district, which registration will include only those persons who are qualified to vote for delegates by the act aforesaid, and who shall have taken and subscribed the following oath or affirmation:

"I, ——, do solemnly swear, or affirm, in the presence of Almighty God, that I am a citizen of the State of ——; that I have resided in said State for —— months next preceding this day, and now reside in the county of ——, or the parish of ——, in said State, as the case may be; that I am 21 years old; that I have not been disfranchised for participation in any rebellion or civil war against the United States, nor for felony committed against the laws of any State or of the United States; that I have never been a member of any State Legislature, or held any executive or judicial office in any State, and afterwards engaged in insurrection and rebellion against the United States, and given aid or comfort to the enemies thereof; that I have never taken an oath as a member of Congress of the United States, or as an officer of the United States, or as a member of any State Legislature, or as an executive or judicial officer of any State, to support the Constitution of the United States, and afterwards engaged in insurrection or rebellion against the United States, or given aid or comfort to the enemies thereof; that I will faithfully support the Constitution and obey the laws of the United States, and will, to the best of my ability, encourage others so to do. So help me God." which oath or affirmation may be administered by any registering officer.

SEC. 2. That after the completion of the registration hereby provided for in any State at such time and place therein as the commanding general shall appoint and direct, of which at least thirty day's public notice shall be given, an election shall be held of delegates to a convention for the purpose of establishing a constitution and civil government for such State loyal to the Union; said convention in each State, except Virginia, to consist of the same number of members as the most numerous branch of the State Legislature of such State in the year 1860, to be apportioned among the several districts, counties, or parishes of such State by the commanding general, giving to each, representation in the ratio of voters registered as aforesaid as nearly as may be. The convention in Virginia shall consist of the same number of members as represented the territory now constituting Virginia in the most numerous branch of the Legislature of said State in the year 1860, to be apportioned as aforesaid.

SEC. 3. That at such election the registered voters of each State shall vote for or against a convention to form a constitution therefor under this act. Those voting in favor of such a convention shall have written or printed on the ballots by which they vote for delegates, as aforesaid, the words "for a convention;" and those voting against such a convention shall have written or printed on such ballots the words "against a convention." The persons appointed to superintend said election, and to make return of the votes given thereat, as herein provided, shall count and make return of the votes given for and against a convention; and the commanding general, to whom the same shall have been returned, shall ascertain and declare the total vote in each State for and against a convention. If a majority of the votes given on that question shall be for a convention, then a convention shall be held, as hereinafter provided; but if a majority of said votes shall be against a convention, then no convention shall be held under this act: Provided, That such convention shall not be held unless a majority of all such registered voters shall have voted on the question of holding such convention.

SEC. 4. That the commanding general of each district shall appoint such loyal officers or persons as may be necessary, not exceeding three in each election district, in any State, to make and complete the registration, superintend the election, and make return to him of the votes, lists of voters and of the persons elected as delegates by a plurality of the votes cast at said election; and upon receiving said returns he shall open the same, ascertain the persons elected as delegates according to the returns of the officers who conducted said election, and make proclamation thereof; and if a majority of the votes given on that question shall be for a convention, the commanding general, within sixty days from the date of election, shall notify the delegates to assemble in convention at a time and place to be mentioned in the notification, and said convention, when organized, shall proceed to frame a Constitution and civil government according to the provisions of this act, and the act to which it is supplementary; and when the same shall have been so framed, said Constitution shall be submitted by the convention for ratification to the persons registered under the provisions of this act, at an election to be conducted by the officers, or persons appointed by the commanding general as hereinbefore provided, and to be held after the expiration of thirty days from the date of notice thereof to be given by said convention, and the returns thereof shall be made to the commanding general of the district.

SEC. 5 That if, according to said returns, the constitution shall be ratified by a majority of the votes of the registered electors qualified as herein specified, cast at said election, at least one-half of all the registered voters voting upon the question of such ratification, the president of the convention shall transmit a copy of the same, duly certified, to the President of the United States, who shall forthwith transmit the same to Congress, if then in session, and if not in session, then immediately upon its next assembling; and if it shall moreover appear to Congress that the election was one at which all the registered and qualified electors in the State had an opportunity to vote freely and without restraint, fear or the influence of fraud, and if Congress shall be satisfied that such constitution meets the approval of a majority of the qualified electors in the State, and if the said constitution shall be declared by Congress to be in conformity with the provisions of the act to which this is supplementary, and the other provisions of said act shall have been complied with, and the said constitution shall be approved by Congress, the State shall be declared entitled to representation, and Senators and Representatives shall be admitted therefrom as herein provided.

SEC. 6. That all elections in the States mentioned in the said "Act to provide for the more efficient government of the rebel States," shall, during the operation of said act, be by ballot; and all officers making the said registration of voters and conducting said elections shall, before entering upon the discharge of their duties, subscribe an oath faithfully to perform the duties of their said office, and the oath prescribed by the act approved July 2, 1862, entitled "An act to prescribe an oath of office:" Provided, That if any person shall knowingly and falsely take and subscribe any oath in this act prescribed, such person so offending, and being thereof duly convicted, shall be subject to the pains, penalties and disabilities which by law are provided for the punishment of the crime of wilful and corrupt perjury.

SEC. 7. That all expenses incurred by the several commanding generals, or by virtue of any orders issued or appointments made by them under or by virtue of this act, shall be paid out of any moneys in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated.

SEC. 8. That the convention for each State shall prescribe the fees, salary, and compensation to be paid to all delegates and other officers and agents herein authorized or necessary to carry into effect the purposes of this act, not herein otherwise provided for, and shall provide for the levy and collection of such taxes on the property in such State as may be necessary to pay the same.

SEC. 9. That the word "article" in the sixth section of the act to which this is supplementary shall be construed to mean "section."
